McGRATH MAY REVEAL DATA ON AMERASIA

Attorney General Says Justice Department Will Decide Soon Whether to Make Facts Public

ATEST DEVELOPMENTS

Washington, June 19.—(AP)—Attorney General McGrath said today the Justice Department will decide soon whether to make public a full report on the 1945 Amerasia case as recommended by a federal grand jury.

McGrath's comment to a reporter came after a weekend bustling with new developments involving the charges of Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) that the State Department harbors Communists and Communist sympathizers.

A key part of those charges, McCarthy has said, concerns the five-year-old episode in which six persons were arrested after the FBI had found hundreds of secret government documents in the offices of the now-defunct Magazine Amerasia.

These were the developments:

1. Three more Republicans joined those party members who have criticized McCarthy's methods in attacking the state department.

2. An official transcript of testimony taken by the senate committee investigating McCarthy's charges showed that Amerasia defendant Emmanuel S. Larsen spoke of former Navy Lieut. Andrew Roth as a "real Communist" and "the principal conspirator" in the case.

Both men were among the six persons arrested in the case; Larsen and Amerasia Editor Philip Jaffe were fined; Roth and the other three never were brought to trial.

3. McCarthy demanded that the senate inquiry group open its doors to the public when it takes testimony Thursday from State Department Consul Official John S. Service—another of the six accused in the Amerasia episode five years ago. The committee plans to hear Service, as it has other Amerasia witnesses, behind closed doors.

4. The State Department accused McCarthy of "deliberate distortion of the public record" in saying that Dean Acheson—now secretary of state—had helped create a Red Poland by approving a $80,000,000 loan to that country in 1946.

State Population Figures In 1950 Running 5.4 Per Cent Ahead of '40

Harrisburg, June 19.—(AP)—Pennsylvania's population in 1950 is running about 5.4 per cent ahead of 1940 figures on the basis of preliminary census counts from all but 13 counties.

A rundown of preliminary figures reported from 54 counties today showed a total of 4,854,483 residents compared to 4,605,550 from the same counties 10 years ago. A gain of 248,933.

But Philadelphia and Allegheny counties, the commonwealth's two biggest, are not in yet. Neither are Bucks, Chester, Cumberland, Dauphin, Jefferson, Lancaster, Lebanon, Luzerne, Montgomery and Somerset counties.

These outstanding counties are expected to just about double the 4,642,152 figure of the 54 counties already in. This would send the Keystone State's census past the 10,000,000 mark for the first time in history.

Pennsylvania reported 9,900,180 in 1940 and 9,631,350 in 1930.

The steepest upsurge in population among the counties reported to date is in Delaware county where the 1950 figure of 413,085 compares to 1940's 310,756.

Forest county seemed sure to hold on to the rating of being the smallest in the state—population-wise—with a listing of 4,919 for 1950 compared to 5,719 ten years ago. Cameron is likely to remain next to 6,852 a decade ago.

A quick in 1950 census rules—college students are counted as residents in the county where the institution is located instead of their hometowns—gave Centre county a 13,000-person boost in population.

There are more than 10,000 students at the Pennsylvania State College in Centre county.

Jaycees and Auxiliary Have A Delightful Dinner Dance And Installation of New Officers

A dinner-dance in connection with the installation of new officers held by the Warren Junior Chamber of Commerce and auxiliary at the Marconi Outing Club Saturday evening was unanimously declared quite the most delightful event the two organizations have participated in since the Jaycees were formed here three years ago.

The banquet and party was held in the large auditorium of the club, appropriately decorated for the occasion by a committee from the auxiliary, with cut flowers being used in profusion on the tables and around the stage. Balloons were hung around the soft-glowing lights in the ceiling.

The delicious dinner was prepared by the Lewis Catering Service and served by members of the staff of the Marconi Club. Retiring President Fran Buchanan, gave the invocation and was in charge of the installation after a brief program of introductions with Leroy Schneek presiding as toastmaster in his usual very capable manner. Guests presented who spoke briefly were William E. Rice, president of the borough council, and Ed C. Lowrey, editor of the Times-Mirror. Both were accompanied by their wives.

Charles Tranter was introduced as vice president of the State Jaycees organization. He spoke of Warren's place in the Pennsylvania organization explaining that chapters in his area are Erie, Warren, Wellsboro, Watonsville, Sunbury, Williamsport and Jersey Shore. He recommended that the Warren chapter take the initiative in strengthening the Jaycees in northwestern Pennsylvania by organizing chapters in Bradford, Titusville and Kane. Also that the Warren chapter make greater effort to enter projects for state awards, pointing out that the local projects are in many cases superior to those which win awards for other chapters. He recommended that Warren continue to take active part in the state organization by sending delegates to each state meeting, and that the chapter conduct a membership campaign this fall to double the present membership of 75.

Mr. Tranter pointed out that the Proposal to Cut Federal Levy On "Economy Brands" of Cigarettes Eliminated In Bill

MILLIONAIRE ADMITS HE IS A BOOKMAKER

New York, June 19.—(AP)—Millionaire gambler Frank Erickson pleaded guilty today to charges of conspiracy and bookmaking.

Erickson, admitted operator of a nationwide bookmaking business, made the plea when he was brought into special sessions court for the opening of his trial.

The plea of guilty to all 60 counts against him was entered by his attorney, Sol Gelb, who told Justice Nathan D. Perlman: "The defendant wishes to withdraw his plea of not guilty and plead guilty to the information."

The maximum penalty on each count of the charge is a year in jail and a $500 fine, which makes the big-time gambler subject to a possible sentence of 60 years in prison and $300,000 in fines.

The information charged one count of conspiracy and 59 counts of bookmaking. District Attorney Frank S. Hogan said he would ask the "stiffest sentence" for the gambler.

Justice Perlman set June 26 for sentencing.

The plump, balding defendant, dressed in a dark blue suit with white pencil stripes and a light grey tie, stood beside the defense table, as his attorney entered the plea.

Erickson was continued in $10,000 bail.

After Gelb entered the plea, the judge turned to Erickson and asked:

"Does the defendant plead guilty to each of the 60 counts?"

"Yes," Erickson replied.

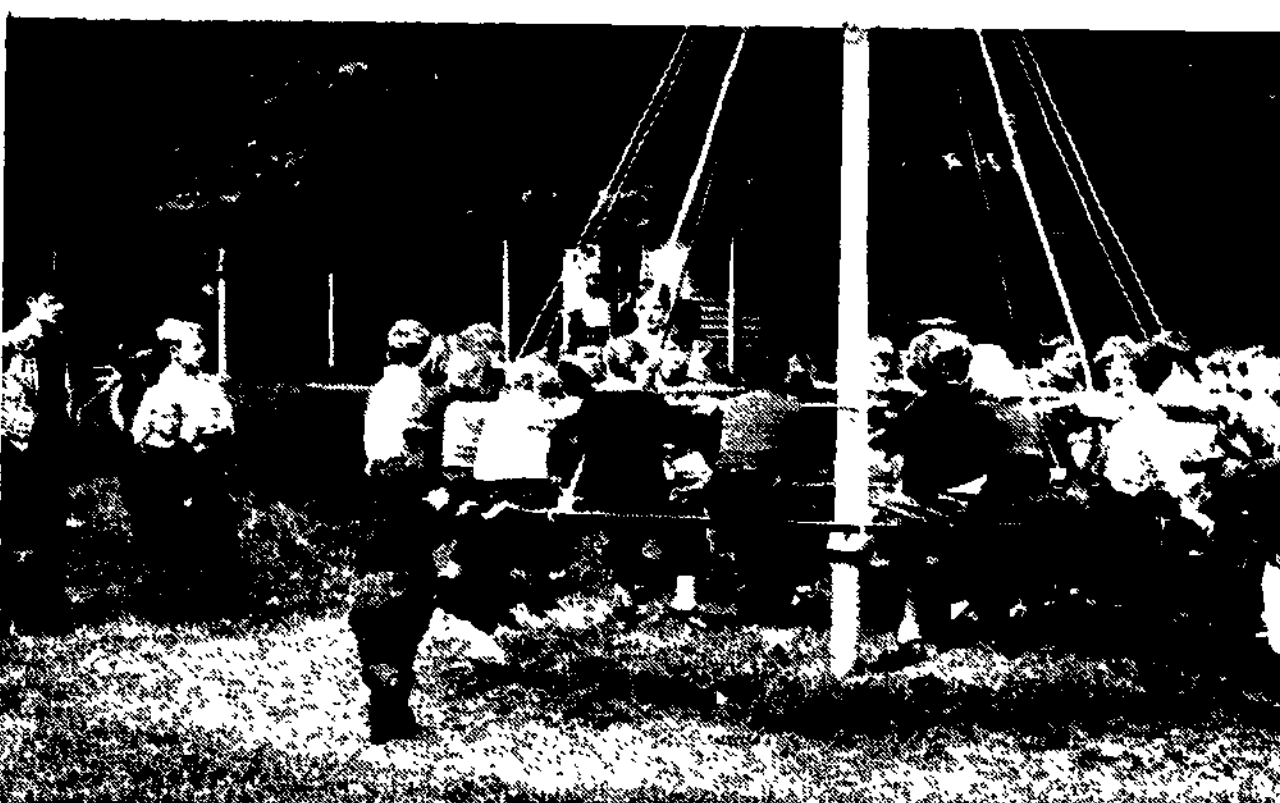

His fingers pressed hard against the table top, but his face appeared without emotion.

Hogan said he saw no reason why the 54-year-old defendant "should not be sent to jail for a long time." The gambler never has spent a day in jail.

There are reports that Erickson pleaded guilty in an attempt to lessen his penalty, although his attorney had maintained up to the time of the trial that the defendant would not do so.

Speculation also circulated that the guilty plea was entered as a means of protecting big-money bettors. Some of these businessmen reportedly wagered up to $15,000 daily through Erickson.

Child Swallows Dog, But It Is Glass One

McKeesport, June 19.—(AP)—When a man bites a dog, that's news but when a little girl swallows one, that's trouble.

Five-year-old Carol Ann Moke is in McKeesport hospital awaiting an operation that will remove from her stomach a small glass dog, about an inch and a half long.

The youngster was playing with the dog in her mouth when she slipped and swallowed it. Doctors said her condition is fair.

Toby Lyons Posts New Course Record

Toby Lyons, pro at the Conewango Valley Country Club turned in a remarkable performance Friday night when he broke the local course record by two strokes.

Lyons, playing with Larry Amy and Pete Juliano, toured the nine-hole, 36-par course in 29 strokes. The previous record, 31, also was held by Lyons.

The popular pro's score might have been even better had he not missed putts of five and six feet on the first and eighth holes. So accurately was he stroking the ball, that on every hole except two where he had to sink a forty foot putt and the 350 yard fifth hole where he holed out a nine iron shot for an eagle two, his putts for birdies were all within easy putting distance for a golfer of Toby's ability.

In the thirty-odd years in which this course has been in existence, a number of the country's top-flight pros have played exhibition matches here, but never has any of them come close to shooting a score like that made by Mr. Lyons on Friday night. His card for the nine holes showed pars on holes one, six and eight, an eagle on the fifth and birdies on the other five holes. This round was preceded by a two under par thirty-four which also set a course record of 63 for the eighteen holes.

Numerous Auto Accidents Keep Boro Police Dep't Busy Over the Weekend

Six automobile accidents, none of which resulted in any serious injuries, were reported at city police headquarters over the weekend.

Friday, about noon, cars operated by Edward Dorrance, 1504 Pennsylvania avenue, east, and Mrs. F. F. Hertz, Fifth avenue, collided at Madison and Central. No amount of damage was reported. Dorrance was driving north on Central and Mrs. Hertz east on Madison.

At 10:30 p. m. Friday, at Laurel and Pennsylvania avenue, west, cars operated by R. Henry Walter, of Youngsville RD 1, and W. W. Baker, of Valle Jo, California, collided with about $300 damage. Warren Jones, Jr., of Youngsville, a passenger in the Walter car, suffered a neck injury. According to the police report, the California car was proceeding west on Pennsylvania avenue when it was forced into a parked car, and then went into a skid, striking the Walter car, going east.

Shortly after noon on Saturday, a minor accident occurred on Beech street, with the principal damage being scratched paint. Police told the drivers to settle their own differences.

Saturday afternoon, at 3:15 o'clock, James Duffield, 7, of 1303 Pennsylvania avenue, east, was painfully injured by cuts about the mouth and head bruises when he ran his bicycle into the side of a car operated by Donald J. Nogar, of Hazelhurst. The accident occurred at Dartmouth and Madison.

Sunday, about noon, a North Irvine street driver reported to police that he had done about $50 worth of damage to a parked car and that he would take care of the damages. No report was filed.

At 12:15 p. m. Sunday, cars operated by Michael Beccia, of Waterbury, Conn., and John J. Ugard, 9 Parker street, collided on Market street. According to the police report, Beccia had stopped to check a detour sign, and as he was pulling away, his car

LANDSCAPE GARDENER IS DEAD AT LUDLOW

Charles J. Hanson, aged 87 years, of Ludlow, died this morning at 10:02 o'clock in the Community Hospital at Kane. He had been seriously ill for the past two weeks.

Mr. Hanson was a retired landscape gardener for the Olmsted gardens at Ludlow. He was born in Halland, Sweden, on May 17, 1863 and came to Sheffield 61 years ago, later moving to Ludlow where he made his home with his son, William.

Other survivors include the following sons and daughters: Mrs. Gust Anderson of Ludlow, Mrs. Martin Sandberg, Herbert C. Hanson, Mrs. Frank Richards, Mrs. Nial Paul and Clarence Hanson all of Jamestown, and Clarence Hanson of Warren; a brother, Nels Hanson of Chicago; a brother and sister in Sweden; seven grandchildren; and a great-grandchild.

Friends may call after noon Tuesday at the home of William Hanson in Ludlow where a prayer service will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Services will follow at 2:30 o'clock in the Swedish Covenant Mission church in Ludlow, with the pastor, the Rev. Herman Davidson, officiating. Burial will be made in the Ludlow cemetery.

The Cummings funeral home in Kane is in charge of arrangements.

State Police Probe Two Auto Accidents

State Police report two accidents over the weekend, one resulting in injury to Fred Greenwood, 45, of Venturdown, when he was struck by a car operated by John O. Carr, of North Warren.

According to police Greenwood was walking across Route 62 near his home, proceeding from the west side to the east side, when he saw several cars approaching from the south. He turned and started back and stepped in front of the Carr machine.

He was rushed to Warren General Hospital where x-rays were taken and it was determined that his injuries consisted of bruises to the left leg and body. He was discharged. The accident occurred at 1:05 p. m. Saturday.

Friday night, at 11:30 o'clock, cars operated by Roger L. Grettenberger, of Tidouate, and George W. Nelson, of Corry, collided about four miles south of Tidouate on Route 61001. Damage was estimated by police as $125 to Grettenberger's car, and $225 to Nelson's car. There were no injuries.

Grettenberger was arrested by police on a charge of failure to yield one-half of the highway.

Bill of Equity Filed By Local UE Union Asks Officials For Accounting of Funds

A bill of equity was filed in Warren county court today asking Harold Hand and Frances Sedlak to account for certain funds of Warren Local 653, United Electric, Radio and Machine Workers of America (UE).

The bill of equity was entered in the office of Prothonotary Ralph E. Sires by William J. Nuhfer, August A. Keller, and Gilbert E. Tucker, as trustees.

They ask the two defendants to account for $569.50 in the union's regular account and $428 in a strike account which the trustees alleged were withdrawn from the bank in November, 1949 without proper authorization. Photostatic copies of checks were filed as part of the bill of equity.

Hand was president and Sedlak was treasurer of the UE local at the time.

Harold Hampson is attorney for the plaintiffs.

The filing of the Bill of Equity comes just two days before a scheduled NLRB election will determine the continuance or discontinuance of the UE union at the Warren plant of the Sylvania Electric Products Co.

The Sylvania workers will be asked to express their choice by secret ballot on (1) the IUE-CIO union; (2) the UE union; or (3) neither union.

The UE union was drummed out of the CIO. The CIO then formed the IUE and is endeavoring to get it back.

Drop in Population of Both Boro And County Revealed By Census Supervisor

A preliminary announcement released by the census supervisor of the district indicates that the population of Warren county has dropped 310 in the ten-year period from 1940 to 1950. The count to date of the returns taken April 1, 1950, is 42,479, as compared to 42,789 in 1940.

A similar drop is also indicated in the borough, where the 1950 census figures are 14,817, as compared to 14,911 in 1940, and 14,863 in 1930.

This revelation will come pretty much as a surprise to many in the community, where it had been generally predicted that the count would show that the borough population would be at least 15,000. The lowest estimate for the county population was fixed at 43,000. Few expected that the county would show a loss.

The preliminary announcement of incorporated places, towns and boroughs, shows Youngsville has 1,941, as compared to 1907 in 1930.

Oil City's population dropped more than 800 in the past 10 years but Venango county showed a 1,080 gain, preliminary figures from the U. S. Census County showed today.

Fred Kovalyck, district supervisor for the census, said the current Oil City figure is 19,556 compared with 20,379 in 1940. Venango county has a present population of 65,038 as against the 63,858 recorded in the last census.

Franklin moved up from 9,943 in 1940 to 9,992. The little oil community of Rouseville just outside Oil City increased from 998 to 1,010.

WAY CLEARED FOR VOTE ON THE MEASURE

Rise in Corporation Assessment Expected To Make Proposed Bill "Veto-Proof"

SITUATION IS REVIEWED

Washington, June 19.—(AP)—The House ways and means committee threw out of its new tax bill today a proposal—once approved—to cut the federal tax on "economy brands" of cigarettes.

The action cleared the way for a vote next on whether to boost corporate taxes about $500,000,000 a year.

Some members contended a rise in corporation taxes would put a "veto proof" tag on their bill cutting wartime excise taxes by $1,100,000,000.

If the tax bill is passed, and a veto avoided, excise imposts will be cut on furs, jewelry, luggage, movies and scores of other items.

After a secret huddle of Democratic tax law writers last week administration leaders appeared confident the committee will approve the corporate tax increase.

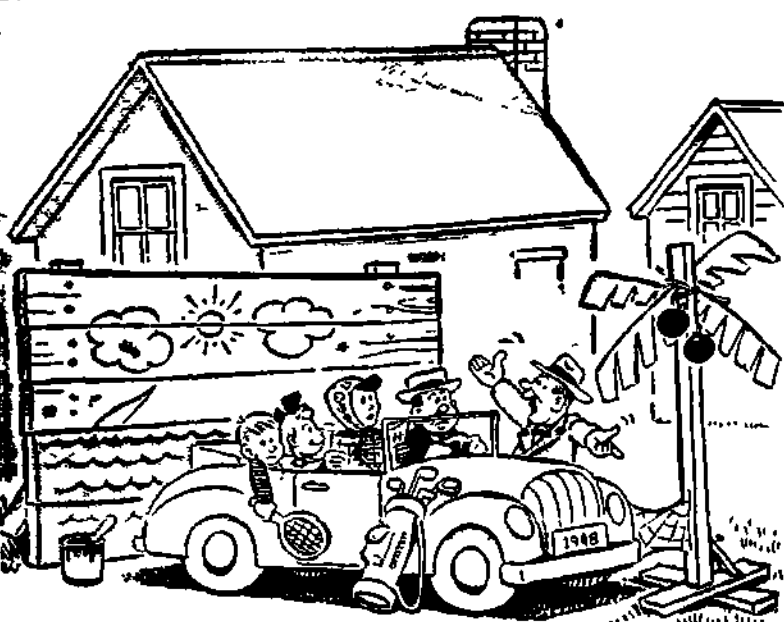

However, the balance is delicate. The 10 committee Republicans are expected to oppose any tax hikes. Some administrationists feared the 15 Democrats may fall out over some minor issues, such as the taxation of cigarettes. If 10 Republicans and three Democrats oppose it, the corporate boost proposal would fail.

This is the situation:

1. President Truman has promised to veto any excise tax slash that falls to make up the revenue loss by higher taxes in other directions.

2. Thus far the committee, by Josephine plugging and various other tax law changes, has been able to find only about $500,000,000 to balance off the billion-dollar-plus excise cuts it has approved.

Special Service To Honor IOOF Groups

Russell, June 19—The Methodist church was filled to capacity for the special service held for members of the IOOF and Rebekah lodges. The ladies' noble grand, Mrs. Elburn Briggs, read the scripture and Mrs. George Hedges offered prayer. Robert Gleason was accompanied by Mrs. Gleason for his solo, "The Holy City." Rev. John Buck, pastor, used for his topic, "True Fraternity" and the choir sang an appropriate selection. The church was beautifully decorated in white and gold with the lodges' insignia prominently displayed.

About 50 are in attendance at the Daily Vacation Bible School, with Mrs. Ernest Beckwith as general chairman, Mrs. Arthur Lindell as chairman of beginners, with Mrs. William Atkins, Mrs. Charles Fox, Mrs. Murray Peterson, Mrs. Floyd Hollabaugh and Mrs. Fay Perryman assisting. Mrs. Benton Barstow in charge of primary work, aided by Mrs. Herman Moll and Mrs. David Smith; Mrs. Beckwith for the intermediates, assisted by Mrs. Harry Pearson and Margaret Sundell. Rev. Buck is assisting also; Mrs. Floyd Lundquist is in charge of singing, with Mrs. Charles Pearson as pianist. Any child not enrolled is invited to do so, whether or not he is a member of the church school. Sessions convene from 9:00 to 11:30 a. m. for two weeks, with a special program to conclude the activities.

DEMOCRATIC OFFICERS RE-ELECTED—Officers of the Pennsylvania State Democratic Committee who were re-elected to their respective posts at the meeting of the committee in Harrisburg, June 13th, are left to right: Maurice Splain, Oil City, chairman; Mrs. Ruth Grigg Horting, Lancaster, vice-chairman; J. Warren Mickle, Harrisburg, treasurer; and Miss Genevieve Blatt, Pittsburgh, secretary. They are shown in informal conference at the meeting.

PORKEY

4-H Club members held their first outdoor meeting at Minister Dam and had the fun of successfully frying eggs and bacon on heated rocks.

Mr. Weller of Henry's Mill visited here Monday.

In Sheffield Wednesday to call at the Gust Swanson home were Mrs. Dolly Littlefield, Mrs. Salsgiver, Mrs. Rupert and Doris.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Hoover, of North Warren, spent Thursday and Friday at Rupert's. Mrs. Hoover, with Mrs. Littlefield and Kitty Rupert called at Moore's at Balltown Thursday.

Julia Perry, of Newark, N. J., spent a week here with her mother, Mrs. Susie Spencer and visited other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Littlefield and family were in Marienville Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gust Swanson, of Sheffield, called at the Rupert home Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edd Littlefield were callers at the Littlefield home Sunday. Other visitors were the Ray Grubbs family, Titusville; Mrs. John O'Donish and children.

CELEBRATION BRIEFS

Ralph Theodore, Conewango avenue, (telephone 2710) is anxious to recruit another "comic band" for the Fourth of July parade, and will welcome the loan of any instruments for his outfit. It will be remembered by all who saw the parade in 1949 that the comic band was one of the hits of the procession.

The number of entrants in the queen contest, which will end Thursday evening, with the selections being made Friday night, is nearing the fifty mark.

The committee is already facing a problem of finances. Hundreds of letters have been mailed to industries, professional men, retailers, taproom owners, etc., appealing for funds. Those in charge will be grateful if checks are mailed immediately. Make them payable to John Haggerty, celebration chairman, Warren National Bank.

And in case you are not planning a larger contribution you can always hand in a buck, and receive in return a nicely printed receipt that will make a nice souvenir and may turn into a very wise investment.

The next meeting of the committee will be Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Legion Home, and all workers are urged to be present.

Fran Buchanan, who retired as president at the dinner-dance ceremonies at the Marconi Outing Club Saturday evening, gave the celebration a big plug before handing over the reins to his successor. The celebration is the big task immediately ahead for the new officers.

Memorial Services Are Held By Grange In Farmington Twp.

Lander, June 19—Farmington Grangers paid tribute to a deceased member, Harry Kays, at their regular meeting, opening the memorial service with the hymn, "Abide With Me". Mrs. Iva Hitchcock, chaplain, read the 23rd Psalm and all repeated the Lord's Prayer. Flowers were placed on the altar in memory of Mr. Kays by Mrs. Ira Stufflebeam, Edward Wilcox gave a reading, "Crossing the Bar," all joined in singing, "The Rainbow at Sunset" and Mrs. Evelyn Wilcox offered prayer.

Evan Wilcox conducted the regular meeting, when it was voted to send a list of names requested by the American Bible Society. It was also voted to purchase a coffee urn for use in the hall, and Charles Clark was hired to mow the lawn during the summer.

Sunshine Club members were entertained at the home of Mrs. Arthur Stanton, with Mrs. Margaret Day assisting, and Mrs. Kenneth Lindell presiding. It was voted to have a cash contribution from each member instead of having a bake sale, and reports showed $7.20 in dues and $1 penny collection. Plans were discussed for a picnic in July, with Mrs. Myron Ludwick and Mrs. Stuart Falconer as the place committee; Mrs. Ira Stufflebeam and Mrs. George Rapp, refreshments committee. The time and place will be announced later. Assisting the hostesses in serving the one o'clock luncheon were Mrs. Leonard Olson, Mrs. John Stanton and Mrs. Ronald Stanton. Present from away were Mrs. Leonard Olson, Jamestown; Mrs. Henry Supple, Mrs. John Stanton, Russell; Mrs. Ray Gruber, Sugar Grove.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Swanson have been Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Swanson and son, Craig, Erie; Mrs. Florida Kinsel, Jamestown; Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Forsberg, Jamestown.

Visiting Mrs. Hazel Kays have been Mr. and Mrs. Albert Traenkle, Butler; Mr. and Mrs. Gene Hason and daughter, Renae, Ellwood City.

Mrs. Jay Cowles attended the 50th wedding anniversary party of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Patchen at Chanders Valley.

Homer Preston, Washington, D. C., spent the past weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ludwick. On Monday, the Ludwicks accompanied him to State College, where he received his doctor's degree in agricultural economics.

WILLOW CREEK

Miss Eva Crouch was in Jamestown recently to call on her aunt, Mrs. Lucretia Rosen, who was 93 years old last Sunday. Mrs. Rosen spent most of her life in Warren county, excepting the past 16 years spent in Jamestown and two years prior to that in California and Oregon. Her greatest interest, besides current events, is her correspondence. She has written several articles concerning her early childhood in the Eldred township section, where her father, Levi Pierce, was a pioneer settler. She still holds membership in the Garland Methodist church and is greatly interested in the current project of redecorating the church and landscaping its grounds.

WELCOME - - - LIBERTY BELL!

Copper cloaked history came to town today for a one-day visit in the form of a full-scale replica of the Liberty Bell which is here to stimulate the sale of United States Savings Bonds and help Warren county attain its $133,930 Independence Savings Bonds Drive quota.

The good people of Philadelphia who ordered the original Liberty Bell wouldn't be able to tell this bell from the one that rang out their freedom on July 4, 1776.

The Liberty Bell in Warren is one of the fifty-two exact copies of the Liberty Bell that the Savings Bonds Division of the Treasury Department put on tour to remind the nation that thrift is a cornerstone of independence. These bells will ring out the message "Save for your Independence" during the drive period May 15 through July 4.

The bells were constructed in Annecy, France, under the supervision of Arthur L. Bigelow, professor of engineering at Princeton University and one of the world's foremost bellmasters.

Millions of Americans will hear how the original bell sounded. First onlookers were almost shocked at the breath-taking beauty of the bell. It is so beautiful that the people who crowded around it forgot that it was mounted very simply on a decorated Ford truck.

The bell, which is one of fifty-two donated by America's copper-producing companies, impressed everyone with its size. It weighs over two thousand pounds and measures three feet from the lip over the crown.

Bellmasters claim that the bell, which is more than eighty per cent copper, will last for centuries and will be a permanent reminder of American ideals.

After the tour of Pennsylvania, Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder will present it to the people of the state for permanent exhibit.

It is sincerely hoped that the bell's appearance in Warren will encourage our citizens to buy Savings Bonds in order to further their plans for a financially independent future.

THERE IS A SEASON

(New York Times)

"For everything there is a season," said the moody author of Ecclesiastes, going on to specify among things, "a time to plant, and a time to pluck up that which is planted." No gardener could quibble with that. But on a simmering June day most gardeners can ask why, at this particular time, the seasons so conspicuously overlap. This is the time to plant and tend the seedlings. But it also is the time to pluck up the weeds which plant themselves. This is the time to cut the grass, which is growing like mad on the lawn, in the orchard, beside the path and in the lesser tended parts of the garden itself. This is the time to trim the hedge, which was so neat two weeks ago and now is a bristling mass of eager shoots intent on rivaling oaks and elms. This is a time to hoe and till and spray and dust and nip off dead lilacs and tie up those rose bushes and stake the peonies. This is a time!

Why does grass grow two inches overnight, just now, when it has all summer ahead? Certainly there is an answer, simple and logical and based in the solid facts of botany. But why, then, does that answer not apply to beans, say, or sweet corn? Besides, your gardener is not really asking for logical answers. He is pleading for time. Time to get all the jobs done.

The grapes should be sprayed again. Blackberries are in blossom. The cherry trees are loaded. Buttercups are in bloom. So is hawkweed. Clover and chickweed flourish in the lettuce bed. Iris are in flower. "For everything there is a season." How true, how true! And this seems to be it, the season for everything at once.

FEW BLEMISHES MAR RECORD

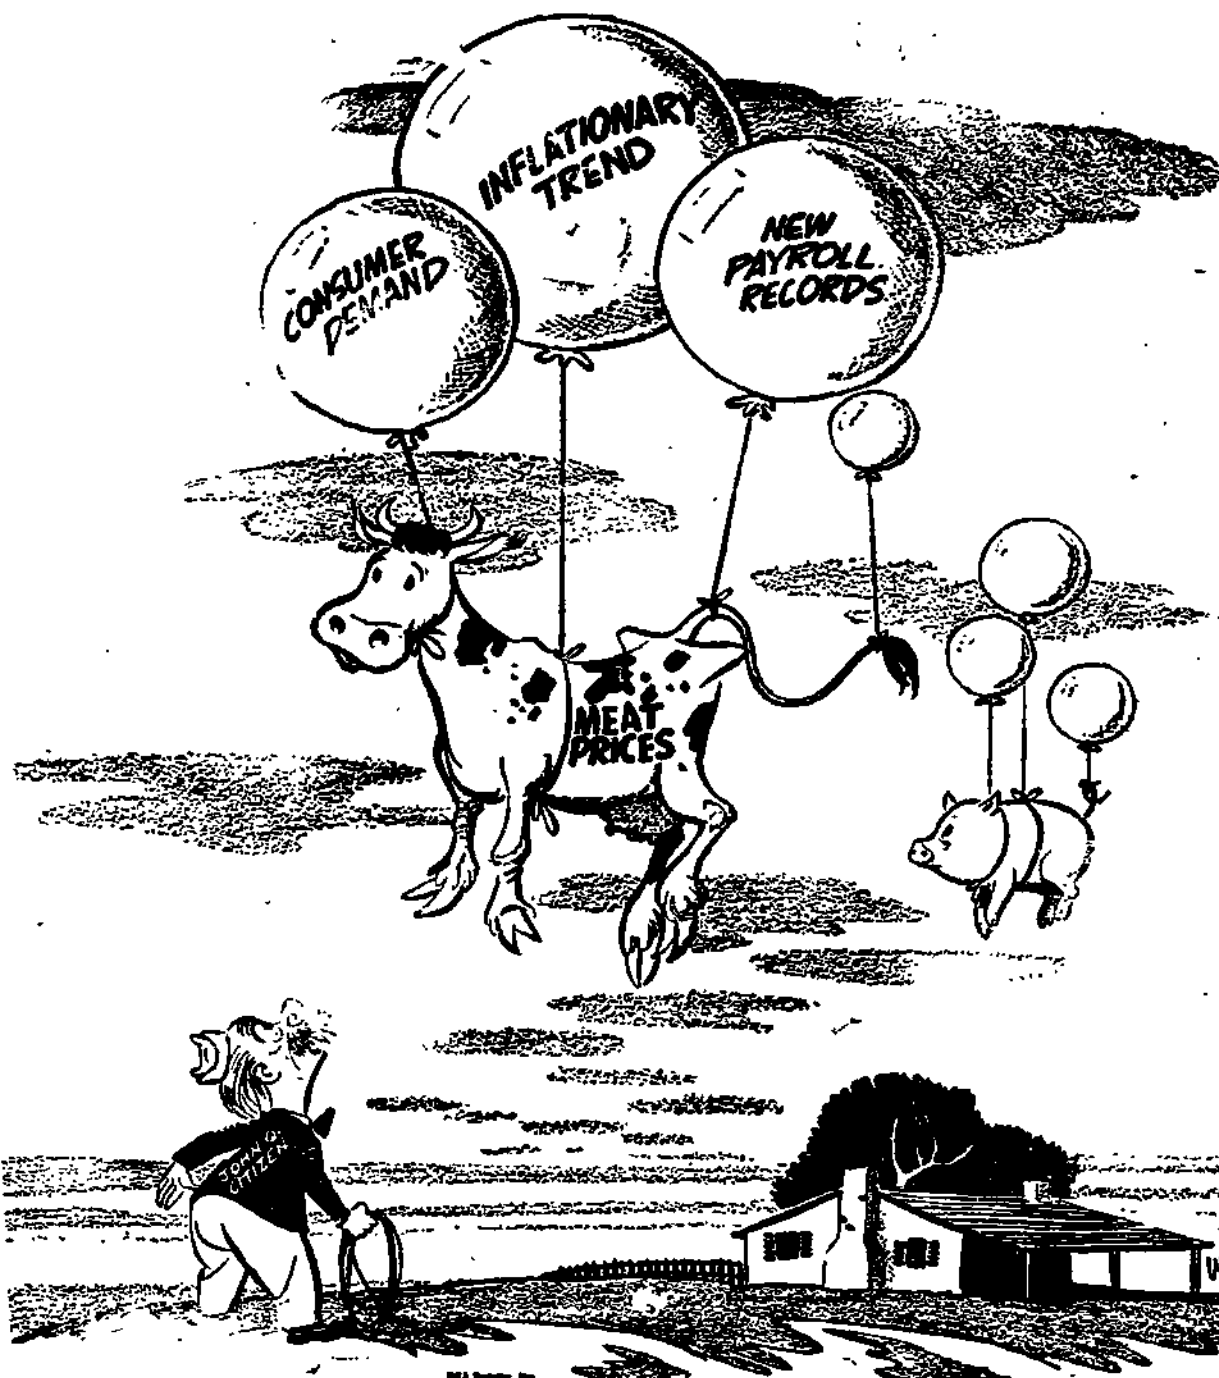

Airplanes are still crashing into the sea with tragic loss of life. Against that backdrop, it's useful to examine the overseas flying record of the U. S. airlines, which have not been involved in these recent accidents.

A government report the other day noted that American commercial craft have been flying across the oceans for 12 years on a regular basis. In that span, they have made more than 61,000 separate flights. And there were only five major accidents in that 61,000.

This is a performance worthy of America's high standards of public transportation safety and efficiency. It demonstrates that overwater flying is no riskier than overland. In fact, some experts argue that weather conditions and air currents are far worse on land because of mountains and other disturbing factors.

It's probably a more dangerous venture to pile into your car and drive 500 miles to visit your family than to hop to London in a four-motor transport.

Oh, Well, We Can Always Go Fishing

Here And There

Although Warren Day, 1950, at Celoron Park is now a matter of history, the following interesting letter concerning the event is printed for the benefit it may have in aiding the park management to set the date for the special day during the coming years:

June 15, 1950

Friend Ed:

This is not necessarily for publication, but I would like to know why "Father's Day" is selected for "Warren Day" at Celoron as has happened several times to my knowledge.

On Father's Day most folks want to stay at home and celebrate with father and many go a distance to do this and many come to Warren from a distance for the same purpose, so do not want to waste the day going to Celoron.

That has been the trouble in my family for my son-in-law and daughter always go to Ridgway on Mother's Day and Father's Day to celebrate with their parents.

We all like to get together and have a picnic at Celoron and because of the numerous children would like to take advantage of the savings in rides.

So it is not likely that any of us will go on Warren Day, when we might meet lots of friends, but will have to postpone it until later and then full fare will have to be paid for the kids.

Please give this some thought before it happens again Ed. for I am sure there are many who have the same view I and my family have and that the attendance would be greatly increased if it were not held on that day but some other Sunday near the same time.

"The Pennsylvania Plan" of accident prevention through safety patrol activity as explained to members of the Warren County Chapter of the Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association by George Maitland, association representative, at a meeting of the chapter last week, is interesting as well as providing an excellent example of the interest of truckers in helping to avert accidents. "Based on the operation of about fifty safety patrol cars operated by P.M.T.A. individual trucking companies, and carriers insurance firms, the plan is expected to supplement the highly commendable traffic control job now being done by the Pennsylvania State Police," the speaker said. The cars under the plan will patrol the highways and make reports of only what they see, good or bad. The reports will be turned in to the operators, without recommendations, for action on the part of the companies. Reports will be kept and progress reports on the plan will be issued from time to time.

This and That: We have been asked to remind those who received "poppy letters" during the recent Legion Auxiliary poppy sale and who may have forgotten, that it is not too late to return your contribution which is always needed in the relief fund. A post card from members of the Warren County Shrine Club en route to Los Angeles for the convention, says: "Passing through North Dakota. Weather perfect. Traveling on North Coast Limited; all fine—Warren Co. Shrine Club." The Washington Senators, American League club, will hold a baseball tryout school in Titusville July 8, 9 and 10. City Recreation Director Roy Van Horn has announced. The school will be held at Carter Field and youths who are out of high school will be eligible to attend. . . . Those six large planes observed flying over Friday about three o'clock are said to have been the Fairchild twin-tailed cargo ships. . . . With no fanfare Slip King continues to keep activities humming at the Warren airport. For instance, one day last week ships from the field made two trips to Lock Haven and one flight to Harrisburg. . . . Among the thirty-eight re-elected directors of the Pennsylvania Grade Crude Oil Association at Pittsburgh last week were the following from Warren—W. F. Clinger, MacLean Houston and Harry A. Logan. . . . Big week for Youngsville opening tomorrow night on Island Park; Wednesday night fireworks; Thursday night water battle; Friday evening, 7:30 parade; Saturday afternoon, pet parade. . . . After attending the dinner-dance Saturday evening we've come to one conclusion and that is—The Warren Chapter of the Junior Chamber of Commerce may not be the largest, but the Auxiliary is composed of best-looking group of young ladies that could possibly be found in any chapter in the state or nation. . . . The first trucks and house trailers connected with the Dumont Shows appearing here this week arrived at the south side lot about 8:30 o'clock Sunday. Heavy fog delayed the start of the caravan from Meadville where the carnival appeared last week. . . . The mercury was down around the forty mark at seven o'clock Sunday morning in the borough, and we understand it dropped much lower than that in the higher sections of the county. Despite the low temperature during the day many local residents journeyed to Celoron yesterday to help celebrate Warren day at that popular lake resort.

Interesting Items Taken From The Warren Evening Times

The Erie Boy Scout Trumpet and Drum Corps, under the direction of Will Peffer, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Frederick Peffer of Warren, arrived here this morning about nine o'clock on their way to New York, where they will welcome Paul Siple, Erie Boy Scout who accompanied Commander Byrd on his Antarctic Expedition.

This is circus day for Warren. A large number of visitors were attracted here from out of town and parks held their quota of strangers who had brought basket lunches with them. Much of the glamor and excitement was missing however, because there was no street parade.

Sam Gerardi, captain of the K. of C. moshall team, was injured during a game on the South Side, but his many friends will be pleased to learn there were no broken bones.

War Bulletins: France asks Germany for armistice; Britain is determined to fight to the end. Hitler and Mussolini will formulate terms for the surrender of France, the ninth country to succumb to Hitler's conquering armies in the past two years. A new cabinet under Marshal Petain is awaiting developments on reported overtures for an "honorable peace".

Neighborhood outdoor band concerts, entirely free to the public, will be presented again this summer by the Veterans of Foreign Wars band of Warren as a project of service to the community.

State Police Warns Motorists To Stop Chasing Fire Trucks

Sgt. James R. Vaughn in charge of the Warren barracks of the State Police, requests publication of the following appeal to motorists to refrain from chasing fire trucks and also stop the practice of parking near the scene of a fire with consequent interference with apparatus:

At a meeting of the Warren County Volunteer Firemen's Association, held at Columbus, Pa., on date of June 15th, 1950, the matter of interference with a fire apparatus by people in cars driving to the scene of a fire, and then parking near the scene of a fire, which interferes with other apparatus that follows or in moving it, was discussed at length.

The matter was referred to Sgt. James R. Vaughn, Commanding Officer of the Warren Station of the Pennsylvania State Police. It was decided that unless cooperation is obtained from the public, arrests would be made to break up this practice.

The Motor Vehicle Code provides that upon the approach of a fire apparatus that is giving audible signal, for the driver of any vehicle to pull to the side of the road parallel to the roadway, and come to a complete stop until it has passed. It further provides that it shall be unlawful for the driver of any vehicle, except on OFFICIAL BUSINESS to follow any fire apparatus traveling in response to an alarm closer than 500 feet, or to park such vehicle within 500 feet where fire apparatus has stopped in answer to an alarm.

We are in hopes that the motorists will abide by the law and use good judgment, let the firemen get to their job and not interfere with their work. We never know where the firemen will be answering a call. It may be your home, that of a relative or a good friend, or maybe just some poor, unfortunate soul.

We are asking your cooperation

The maple leaf, the national emblem of Canada, is the leaf of the sugar maple a very important tree occurring in abundance on the Allegheny National Forest. The Canadians chose wisely in selecting the maple leaf as their national emblem for this fine tree has so much to offer man in material comforts.

In Colonial times it furnished maple syrup and maple sugar to relieve the monotony of an otherwise sugarless diet. Such fine old furniture was made from it that today these antiques are eagerly sought after, and are copied in present day maple furniture. The wood from the sugar maple turned long burning fuel for the pioneer's cabin fireplace, and the ash from it was used as a fertilizer in his fields.

The modern child becomes intimate early with sugar maple for his child's bed and other furniture are usually made of this wood, and his wooden toys are largely of maple. He may learn to creep and walk on maple floors in his home. The piano he later learns to play will have maple piano actions, and if he learns to play a stringed instrument maple will be one of the woods used in its construction. As he goes for an airing in his stroller of maple, his mother accompanies him in shoes that were shaped on sugar maple shoe lasts. The sidewalk they travel over most likely is shaded by maple trees, for this tree is a favorite in most eastern towns.

Unlike the black cherry, sugar maple is very tolerant of shade and can reproduce and grow under a fairly heavy overstory. It lends itself admirably to the selection system of cutting, practiced on the Allegheny National Forest, and responds well to good management by putting on fairly rapid growth.

On thousands of acres of land, on the Allegheny Forest, sugar maple is well represented in the stands of 35 to 55 year old second

EGG PRODUCTION

Pennsylvania's egg production reached record proportions for the month during May despite a heavy reduction in the number of layers. The state agriculture department reported a total of 318,000,000 eggs produced in May, highest on record. Due to higher feed costs and lower prices for eggs and poultry meat, flock reductions totaled 1,336,000. The average number of layers was 17,616,000, but this still was a record for May. Pennsylvania egg production for the first five months of 1950, totaled 1,575,000,000 as against 1,491,000,000 for the same period last year, indicating a new all-time record might be established for the year, observers said.

Public Concert Concluding Event In Very Satisfactory Boy Choir Season

The Warren Boy Choir brought to a brilliant close its 1950 season in the concert presented in the Warren High School auditorium appearing before audiences that were receptive to its every mood. James Valone, as master of ceremonies, handled his announcements with poise.

Opening the program with a sacred group, the choir gave these numbers in true chorale style: sharp attacks and true pitch throughout; while tone quality in the Cherubim number was especially lovely. Charles Smith, as soloist, sang with good diction and phrasing.

Equally difficult, the second group featured a lullaby by Robertson. In these numbers, as in the entire program, sureness of the moving parts and purity of sustained voices were a great source of enjoyment. True pitch and ease of presentation in any grouping is a real test and one in which the boys excelled throughout.

"Ait Down Servant", arranged by Pittman, was a syncretized number in which Charles Eaton, John Elberly, Roger Rue and David Anundson had unison duets. David Anundson, who shows a genuine feeling for his music, pleased again with "On the Road to Mandalay."

The third group was in a lighter vein, including an arrangement of "Old King Cole" and "So This Is Rehearsal", an original skit planned by David Anundson and executed (and the term is used advisedly) by Roger Rue, who tied up all the chords, himself and the audience in a frenzied rendition of "Vive l'Amour". Robert Saunders lent variety with a costumed military tap dance which combined a natural grace and rhythm, along with a pleasing personality.

In the "Gay Nineties" scene, the boys again employed their staging abilities, presenting a chorus of changed voices in which principal roles were carried by Robert Clinger as the Lady, John Donaldson (only charter member of the group), and Richard LeTrent, who nearly stole the show as The Lady In Red.

Part Four was introduced by the emcee with a few remarks about Stephen Foster's life, with piano and organ medley of familiar Foster tunes. In this lovely garden scene, Roger Rue and David Anundson were seated with their ladies, Dennis Lord and Allan Berglund, as hosts to Belles and Beaus of the chorus.

William Carlson was a pleasing soloist in "Old Dog Tray"; Robert Saunders returned in a tap routine to "Old Folks At Home"; Ray Bennett, the smallest if not the youngest singer in the group, did "Old Black Joe" in a beautifully placed soprano; James Rose, Allan Berglund, Martin Carlson, Dennis Lord and Richard Swanson had solo spots which they handled with ease. The group was brought to a close by the beautiful "Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming" sung by Roger Rue, who can always be depended upon for a fine performance. David Anundson had the solo in "Some Folks", while the chorus moved into position for the finale, the difficult Wilhousky arrangement of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," masterfully sung by the boys.

To the accompanists, Evelyn Wolstencroft and Adelaide Swanson, goes a special tribute for their contribution. To Director Byron Swanson, a special word of praise, since there is no greater credit than the knowledge of doing a good job and the pleasure of working with the boys in a common interest. They work hard and intensively to achieve the desired results, but their genuine enjoyment in presenting their programs more than compensates for the hours of rehearsal.

Lillian W. Anderson Becomes Bride of Sugar Grove-Farmington School Head

MRS. EVERETT A. LANDIN

Hessel Valley Lutheran church was the setting Friday evening for the June wedding of Lillian W. Anderson, daughter of Carl V. Anderson, Chandler's Valley, and Everett A. Landin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur O. Landin, Sugar Grove.

Pastor C. J. Franzen read the double ring ceremony at 8:00 o'clock in the presence of 100 guests. Music was furnished by Harold W. Landin, brother of the bridegroom, who sang "I Love You Truly" preceding the ceremony, and "O Perfect Love" while the couple knelt at the altar. Mrs. Harold Landin, violinist, played "Meditation" from Thais, and "Because" while the guests assembled, and "The Lord's Prayer" during the ceremony. Mrs. Emil Jacobson, Warren, was the accompanist.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Mrs. Gilbert Carlson, who wore a gown of pink frosted organza, fashioned with fitted bodice and full skirt, and carried an arm bouquet of yellow carnations.

Groomsmen were his brother, Donald E. Landin as best man, Melburn Landin and Gilbert Carlson, ushers.

The bride was escorted by her father. Her wedding gown of white taffeta was fashioned with a cathedral train, portrait neckline of Chantilly lace, and tightly fitted long sleeves pointed over her hands. Her bridal veil fell fingertip length from a Juliet cap and she carried a bouquet of white carnations. She also wore a single strand of pearls gift from the bridegroom.

Mrs. Landin wore navy blue sheer with carnation corsage. The 100 guests were later entertained at a reception in the church parlors. Garden flowers, lighted tapers, and a three-tier wedding cake, topped with tiny bride and groom figures, centered the table. Harold Landin acted as master of ceremonies. Miss Ida Lundberg, Jamestown, poured and Miss Lillian Landin, Warren, served the cake. Aldes were Mrs. Everett Anderson and Miss Audrey Carlson, with Mrs. Ephraim Carlson and Mrs. Arthur Engstrom, Sr., assisting in the serving.

Mr. and Mrs. Landin left for a wedding trip to the New England States, to be at home after their return in Chandler's Valley. For travel, the bride wore a white woolen suit with white accessories. The bridegroom is an alumnus of Alfred University and is principal of the Sugar Grove-Farmington Joint Schools. The bride attended Hoff Business School and is employed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Production and Marketing Administration, Warren.

Pre-nuptial affairs in her honor were given by Mrs. Everett Anderson, Mrs. David Lindberg, Warren; Mrs. Ernest Nelson, Miss Ida Lundberg, Jamestown; Mrs. James Dodge and Mrs. Arthur Smith. The rehearsal party was given by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Landin.

Guests were present from Kingwood, W. Va., Jamestown, Rochester and Lakewood, N. Y.; Warren, Bradford, Youngsville, Chandler's Valley and Sugar Grove.

MARGARET BATHURST PLANS OPEN CHURCH
Margaret Bathurst, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd W. Bathurst, North Warren, will observe open church June 23 for her marriage to Richard A. Gilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. N. Gilson, 34 Brook street, Warren.

Children Owe Something to Parents, Despite Modern Idea

THE modern idea that we owe our children everything and they owe us nothing has contributed as much as anything to the lack of unity in the modern home.

When every member of the family had certain responsibilities, from the youngest child on up, home life was a shared adventure in living. But look in on the modern home today and what do you find? Mama not only cooks the meals, but she also gets the table, clears it off when the meal is finished, does the dishes, and only then joins the family circle. Maybe Papa lends a hand occasionally. But the children? Nothing doing.

They're in their rooms reading a comic book, listening to the radio, or in the living room looking at television when there are family chores to be done.

If they do take on an occasional job it is for pay, or because Mama and Papa periodically decide they ought to help around the place a little and go on a one or two-day crusade to get them to do a few jobs. But as for continuing responsibilities, today's youngsters just don't have any.

PARENTS WIND UP WITH CHORES

JUNIOR gets a dog—and Mama takes care of him. Sis gets a room of her own, fixed up according to her taste, and then leaves it in a mess day after day for Mom to clean up.

Betty thinks she is old enough to date, but Mama is supposed to keep her clothes ready to wear.

Joe wanders off to the drugstore or takes the family car out for the evening while Dad mows the lawn.

In family after family children don't have one single day-in-and-out responsibility they are expected to fulfill as part of their contribution to family living.

There's just one thing wrong with the idea of giving children everything and asking nothing in return. Nothing is exactly what the parents get.

Class of '49 Has Gleason - Rounds Delightful Picnic Rite Is Announced

Warren High School's '49ers met together for the first time in over a year, when they held their initial class reunion at Midway Park on Lake Chautauqua Saturday.

The common greeting to old friends was "Brr-r", but despite the chilly weather it was heartwarming to talk over old times once again.

The affair began at two o'clock in the afternoon, with roller skating and softball drawing the most interest. A picnic lunch was served at six o'clock.

After resting up, the group journeyed to the Casino at Bemus Point where dancing was enjoyed from nine to 12 to the music of Frankie Emerson and his orchestra. During the dance the group gathered together and sang the "Alma Mater", led by Mr. Emerson.

Much credit is due the committee, as well as the alumni members in attendance, for making the first reunion a huge success, and it is the hope and aim of the '49ers to continue the affair annually to beat the challenge given by the Class of '29.

A simple ceremony performed by Father Alfred Leon at 1 p. m. Saturday, June 10, in St. Joseph's rectory united in marriage Dorothy Rounds, 619 East street, daughter of Mrs. Florence Rounds, Buffalo, N. Y., and Walter Gleason, son of Mrs. Gertrude Gleason, 407 Fourth avenue.

Evelyn Rounds was her sister's bridesmaid and Theodore R. Gleason served his brother as best man.

A reception for 35 guests followed at the Gleason home, after which the couple left for a wedding trip to Cleveland, O. They will make their home in Tidouite.

Both young people are employed by Sylvania Electric Products and the bridegroom is an alumnus of Warren High School.

Edith Shearer and Harold Gilson Are Wed Saturday In Bethel EUB Church

Edith Shearer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle W. Shearer, Pleasant township, became the bride of Harold B. Gilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Gilson, 110 Frank street, at 2:30 p. m. Saturday in Bethel Evangelical United Brethren church, Rev. Roger D. Morley officiating. Pink and white peonies and palms were arranged as an attractive setting for the ceremony.

Jean Eames played a recital of wedding airs while guests assembled and was accompanied by Mrs. Norman Pierce, who sang "Because", "I Love Thee" and "The Lord's Prayer".

Escorted and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of marquisette over satin, fashioned with sheer yoke and bertha of Chantilly lace, fitted bodice, and saxon pointed sleeves. The bouffant skirt featured a draped ruffle of lace across the front and this same trim was repeated around the court train. With it she carried white lilies.

Comprising the bridal party were her sister, Isabel, as maid of honor; Magdalene Benson and Isabel Corbram, bridesmaids; E. E. Bauer, Bradford, serving his cousin as best man; Jack Trax and Max Crosby, ushers.

Mrs. Shearer selected for her daughter's wedding a lavender bemberg print and Mrs. Gilson wore blue crepe, each having white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Mixed garden flowers were used in appointments for the reception which followed immediately in the church parlors. The guest list of approximately 100 included relatives and friends from Jamestown, Rochester, Franklinville, Houghton and Olean, N. Y.; also Hartford and Rosanna, Ill.; Erie, Corry, Sugar Grove, Titusville, Youngsville, Tidouite, Centerville and Clarendon.

Later, the couple left for a wedding trip to Washington, D. C., to be at home to friends after June 25 in a new home in Pleasant township. For going away, the bride chose a green shantung suit-dress, white accessories and a red rose corsage.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Gilson are Warren High School graduates and both are locally employed, the bride in the local office of the Pennsylvania Gas Company; the bridegroom at the United Refining company.

Honoring her with pre-nuptials have been the Bethel EUB choir; Mrs. C. H. Heptfinger; office girls at the gas company; Isabel Corbram, Isabel Shearer, Magdalene Benson and Jean Eames; Marliou Andereg and Jean Eames.

SUCCESSFUL PARTY
BY LEGION AUXILIARY

The public card party given at the Legion Home by the Auxiliary proved a very successful event, with 21 tables in play and prizes donated by local merchants and interested individuals awarded the winners in bridge, five hundred and canasta. Winners reported are: Bridge—1st, Mrs. McCann; 2nd, Mrs. George Mostert; 3rd, Mrs. Myrtle Rogers. Five hundred—1st, Mrs. Minnie Matthews; 2nd, Mrs. Bernice Sullivan; 3rd, A. W. Carlson; 4th, N. B. Matthews. Canasta—1st, Mrs. Florence Poy; 2nd, Mrs. Marie Hauke; 3rd, Mrs. Anne Hildum; 4th, Robert Brown. Special awards—Mrs. Anne Hildum, Mrs. Barnes, Mrs. Robert Brown.

Serving as committee chairman for the affair were Mrs. Freeman Peterson, Mrs. Leonard Knapp, Mrs. Ell Wallace and Mrs. Milton Witt, assisted by Mrs. Merle Graham, Mrs. J. H. Triscoll, Mrs. Floyd Abiquist, Mrs. Florio Larson, Mrs. Florence Demei, Mrs. Cleareta Meeder, Mrs. George Cobb, Mrs. Ella Mauk, Mrs. Sam Loomis, Mrs. Lula McMichael, Mrs. Claude McMillan, Mrs. Ralph Mook, Mrs. Della Malm, Mrs. Hazel Patchen and Mrs. Effie Spiedel. Those in charge are most appreciative of the efforts of the workers and all who helped in making the affair so successful.

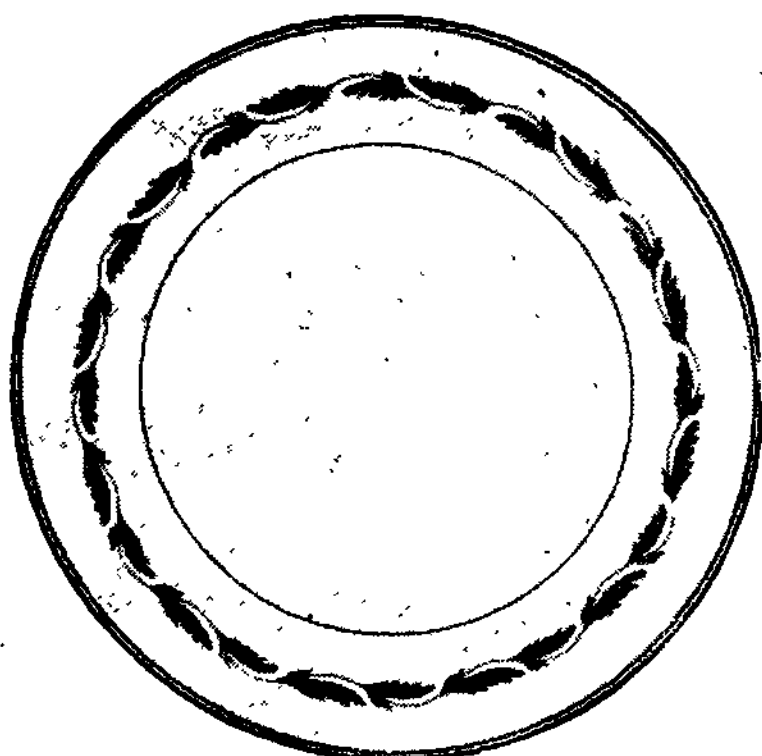

It is estimated that 16 to 20 per cent of U. S. economic effort goes into new capital goods.

POLICY COMES TO LIFE

Mary Jones was referred to the Children's Aid Society by her family physician when it was learned that she was illegitimately pregnant.

Mary was a bundle of mixed feelings when she knocked on the door of the Children's Aid Society's office. She was glad she had someone to turn to for help but was scared and worried about the problems which the months ahead would present.

She was met by Miss Elliott, the Case Worker, who greeted her with sympathy and understanding and listened carefully to her story. When all the facts were known, Miss Elliott helped Mary plan for the future. (1). This included telling her family and receiving maternity home care. Having received this help, much of Mary's uncertainty and fear was relieved and she left feeling that she was not alone with her problems.

When Mary first saw her beautiful little daughter, Joan, plans for a home with her baby filled her mind. This was not immediately possible, so the Children's Aid Society helped her find the right boarding home (2) for her child. In this home, she would be free to visit Joan and would assume the financial responsibility for her care.

As the months passed, Mary realized that she could not give Joan the social and financial security which she wanted for her. Because she loved her child and wanted the brightest possible future for her, she decided to talk with Miss Elliott about adoption.

When after many thoughtful talks, Miss Elliott was convinced that Mary was sincere in her convictions that this was the best possible solution for her baby's future, she started the necessary proceedings.

After careful examinations showed that Joan was healthy, both physically (3) and emotionally, (4) Miss Elliott reviewed the applications of adoptive parents in her file and chose the Green family because she felt it most closely matched Joan's capabilities and inheritance. Miss Elliott visited Mr. and Mrs. Green in their home for pleasant and exhaustive interviews, which helped her to learn them as people and prospective parents rather than just statistics on a file card. After weighing all factors, it was decided that this home would provide the love and security Joan would need to develop to the best of her abilities. (5)

This was accomplished with as much speed as caution would allow and soon Joan, young enough to make an easy adjustment, was happy with her new father and mother.

Over 100 Attend
Players' Function

Over 100 members of the Warren Players Club attended the Cotton Frolic in the Marcom Outing Club Friday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Williams were chairmen for the party, which included dinner, dancing and entertainment.

Following the dinner the entertainment committee, under Helen Morrow, presented an outstanding floor show. Janet Gully, Tidouste High School student, was presented to a local audience for the first time and literally stopped the show with her impersonations of Betty Hutton, Al Jolson and others.

The other acts were equally well received. They included the Fox Brothers of Russell with their duet music; Dick Rapp and Nancy King, with a dance interpretation of Slaughter on Tenth Avenue; Mary Konastoba and her accordion; and Dave Smith, with his trained flea circus.

The evening was concluded with both round and square dancing to the music of Ford Winner and his orchestra.

Nuptials In St. Callistus Church At
Kane Unite Mary Tigani-Gusty Arrigo

J. Federico, Dunkirk, N. Y.; James Fedele, Detroit, Mich.

Mrs. Tigani selected a blue rayon crepe frock, with which she wore pink carnations and lilies of the valley.

The reception followed from five until midnight in the Columbus Social Club, where the three-tiered wedding cake was surrounded by dolls figures dressed identically with the bride's party.

A guest list of 400 included relatives from Utica, Canandaigua, Rochester, Syracuse, Auburn, Buffalo, Lancaster and Geneva, N. Y.; Cleveland and Lorain, O.; Hamilton, Ontario; Clarendon, Warren, Emporium, Pittsburgh, Ridgway and Johnsonburg.

For a wedding trip to Canada and New York, the bride chose a toast colored suit and corsage of white roses. After June 27, the couple will be at home in Erie, where Mr. Arrigo is attending Orra-Jean Barber Institute.

His bride is a graduate of Kane High School Class of '48, and attended Warren Business School, while he is a graduate of Warren High School and former Dragon football player.

NEWCOMERS' BRIDGE

The Welcome Wagon Newcomers' bridge party was held at the home of Mrs. David Cropp, Hickory street, with Mrs. Edward Shellgren, Mrs. Lola McCann and Mrs. Joan Smith as hostesses. Three tables were in play with Mrs. LeRoy Schneck winning high score. The next regular meeting of the group will be held in September.

PERSONAL ITEMS

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Swanson and daughter, Cathy, of Rochester, N. Y., are visiting Mrs. Swanson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hollister, Venturatown.

Richard Randall has returned to Allegheny College following several days vacation with his mother, Mrs. Katherine D. Randall, 107 Jackson avenue. Dick will continue his studies at the summer session, majoring in psychology, and will do work with music, also for the Penn Players, who plan to stage three musicals and two plays this season.

William Rhoades, Clarendon, served Mr. Arrigo as best man and ushers were Joe DeLoe, Clarendon; Pasquale Tigani, Kane; Anthony

Lorna Mae Hulings - George Gravell
Wed Saturday, Returning to Bucknell

At 2 p. m. Saturday in First Presbyterian church, Dr. Robert S. Steen united in marriage Lorna Mae, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Hulings, 446 Prospect street, and George Gravell, son of Major and Mrs. William H. Gravell, Philadelphia.

Palms and a large spray bouquet of white peonies and glads were used as an attractive setting for the service. Carroll Fowler at the organ played a half-hour recital of traditional wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of filmy white nylon tulle. The fitted bodice was accented by a very deep bertha, falling over the shoulders from a high round neckline, and a border of tiny ruffles forming the sleeves. A deep ruffle cascaded down the back and around the bottom of the voluminous floor length skirt. Dainty wristlets and a fingertip veil of imported illusion net completed her costume. She carried a large cascade bouquet of white roses and baby's breath, centered with white orchids.

She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Donald Boyles, Park Forest, Ill.; as matron of honor; Mabel Joy Davis, Plymouth, Pa., and Lorraine Collani, Maplewood, N. J., as bridesmaid. Mrs. Boyles wore a hoop-skirted gown of pink marquisette over taffeta, with matching mitts and small open-crowned headdress of the same color and material and trimmed with tiny rosebuds. She carried an old fashioned bouquet. The bridesmaids wore powder blue gowns and accessories of the same style as Mrs. Boyles' and carried similar bouquets.

Donald Boyles was best man for Mr. Gravell, and ushers were William Neff, Philadelphia, and William Fullmer, Moorestown, N. J., both fraternity brothers of the bridegroom.

The bride's mother wore gray lace, navy accessories and red roses, while Mrs. Gravell wore white accessories and yellow roses with a lavender print.

Eighty guests were invited for the reception which followed immediately at the Woman's Club, where white peonies and tapers centered the all-white tea table and a three-tiered wedding cake was served from a side table. Aides were Cynthia Calderwood, Carol Somers, Janey Tritt, Barbara Cochran, Mary Evelyn Hill.

Guests included Major and Mrs. Gravell, Arthur Gravell, William Neff, Theodore A. Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hodgkins, Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Boyles, Park Forest, Ill.; C. A. Childs, Mrs. Olive Ledebur, Tionesta, Mrs. W. E. Clark, Hamilton, Ontario; Mr. and Mrs. Elton Clark, Toronto, Ontario, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lemon, Betty and Harry Lemon, Aldershot, Aldershot, Ontario; Lorraine Collani, Maplewood, N. J.; Mabel Davis, Moorestown, N. J.; Mrs. Roy Nellis, George Nellis, Brockport, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lumley, Wilmington, Del.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hook, Dunkirk, N. Y.; Peggy Smith, Lansdale; Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Schell, Mr. and Mrs. H. Sweet, Fredonia, N. Y.

The couple left later in the day for a wedding trip through southern and western states, to be at home in September at Bucknell University, Lewisburg, where Mr. Gravell will be a senior and is a member of Sigma Chi fraternity. He is a graduate of Admiral Farragut Academy, Pine Beach, N. J., served three and one-half years in the United States Navy during World War II and is an ensign in the Naval Reserve.

For travel, the bride chose a yellow summer suit, with white picture hat, accessories and white orchid corsage. She was graduated from Warren High in 1948, completed her sophomore year at Bucknell, and is a member of Phi Mu Sorority. She has been honored with parties given by classmates at college, and a luncheon at the Woman's Club, given by Cynthia Calderwood. The rehearsal dinner was held at the Ride-A-Wee Inn Friday.

Candlelight Rite In Grace Church For
Joyce Erickson and C. L. Christensen

Palms and a variety of summer garden flowers were used in pretty decoration of Grace Methodist church Saturday for the wedding of Margaret Joyce Erickson and Chester Laurence Christensen. Rev. C. W. Baldwin performed the candlelight service at 3 p. m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Erickson, 8 Dahl street, while Mr. Christensen is the son of Nels Martin Christensen, Rochester, N. Y.

Mrs. Kenneth Nielsen was at the organ for traditional wedding music and as accompanist for the soloist, Harold Leimbach, of Penn State College, a fraternity brother of the bridegroom. His numbers were "I Love You Truly," "O Promise Me" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Gowned in rosepoint lace and satin, the bride's veil of illusion net fell fingertip length from a Juliet cap of matching lace, and carried white roses centered with an orchid. A pearl necklace was her only jewelry.

She was given in marriage by her father and attended by Mrs. Kenneth M. Christensen as matron of honor. Mr. Christensen was his brother's best man and ushers were William Erickson, Jr., Walter Scott Calderwood, Reese Campbell and Clifford Anderson.

Mrs. Erickson chose for her daughter's wedding a navy sheer white accessories and a corsage of white roses. Mrs. Christensen, stepmother of the bridegroom, wore white roses and pink accessories with a black sheer.

The reception followed immediately in the American Legion Home, where garden flowers were repeated in attractive appointments. Two floral arrangements were used on the bride's table and miniature bridal figures topped the five-tier wedding cake.

Included in the guest list of 200 were the following from out of town: Mr. and Mrs. Willis Anderson, Waterford; Mr. and Mrs. Dwight L. Somers, Waterbury, Connecticut; James Crossan, Vandergrift; Robert Burgess, Leechburg; Jack Bixby, Ridgway; James Colt, Walter Eaton, Buffalo, N. Y.; Mrs. Frances Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Leigh Wilson, Orville Wilson, Jamestown, N. Junior Chamber is unlike any other organization in the world. It is neither business, civic, social or fraternal but a combination of all these things. It is unique, he said, in that no man over 35 years of age can belong and its purpose is to develop leadership training while improving the community.

Retiring president Buchanan was in charge of installation of the new board and officers. They were introduced as follows: President, Kenneth Carlson; vice president, Glenn Nelson; treasurer, John Haggerty; secretary, John Newmaker; and James Lucke, secretary (not present).

sidents, Glen Nelson and John Newmaker; secretary, James Lucke; treasurer, John Haggerty; board members, Royce Black, Lawrence Ekey, Willis Tickner, Ross Ruhlman, Jr., and Charles Decker. The new president expressed appreciation of the honor shown him, urged continued cooperation of members and presented a past president's pin to Mr. Buchanan.

Retiring auxiliary president, Mrs. Alex Fino introduced the new officers and board of the auxiliary, as follows: President, Mrs. John Deusing; vice president, Mrs. Ben Keil and Mrs. Robert Gates; secretaries, Mrs. John Hagcollided with Ugard's car, which was passing. Damage was estimated at $150 to Ugard, and about $20 to Beccia.

A bum, picked out of a freight car on the South Side Saturday afternoon, was given more suitable quarters in the city building for the weekend.

Early Saturday morning, a local inebriate, who had been refused service at an east side tavern, laid down in the doorway to take a short nap while awaiting the arrival of police. He continued his slumbers on the slats.

Kids, who were playing around the score board at War Memorial Field on Saturday, were warned to stay away from the structure. The field is now borough property and a close check will be made of any deprivations there.

Saturday afternoon, residents of both Pennsylvania avenue, east and west, reported drunks passed out in cars. In both cases, police found out-of-town drivers who had pulled over to the curb for a refreshing nap. At 12:41 a. m. today, they did find a drunk asleep in his car on Madison avenue, however, and took him to the city lock-up to sober up.

A reported theft in a Laurel street home is being investigated by police.

FRED A. KELLER

Largely attended funeral services were held at the First Lutheran church at 3 p. m. Friday for Fred A. Keller, long an active member of the congregation. His pastor, Rev. E. K. Rogers, officiated and the following served as bearers for interment in Oakland cemetery: H. C. Rogers, I. S. Brumagim, H. S. Peterson, K. G. Timm, C. M. Irwin and F. H. McCutchen. Named as honorary bearers were Dr. C. J. Frantz, F. E. Redding, Dr. H. A. Rinard, J. E. Anderson, Amel Follett and Fred Schriest.

The following officers of Joseph Warren Lodge, 726, F. and A. M., conducted the Masonic ritual at the graveside: Ernest Johnson, worshipful master; K. G. Timm, senior warden; G. M. Irwin, junior warden; F. H. McCutchen, chaplain; A. E. Kinney, tiller.

In attendance from away were G. D. Keller, Freeman Keller, Corning, O.; Mr. and Mrs. Leon Keller, New Lexington, O.; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Anderson, Fredonia, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Keller, Hammon, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. John C. Keller, Sheffield.

ARTHUR RUDOLPH

Arthur Rudolph, aged 73, of Clarendon, R. D. 1, died at 12:30 p. m. Friday at Warren General Hospital, where he was admitted on June 1. Removal has been made to the Haslet Funeral Home, Tionesta, but arrangements for services have not been learned.

INFANT STEVENSON

Jack Clark Stevenson, three weeks old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stevenson, Warren RD 2, died at 5:30 a. m. today in Warren General Hospital, where he had been ill since birth.

Besides his parents, he leaves one brother, Robert, at home; his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Stevenson, North Warren; and the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Clement Wolstencroft, Warren; also several aunts, uncles and cousins.

A committal service will be held at 3:30 p. m. today in Oakland cemetery, with Rev. Wayne Furman, pastor of First Methodist church, officiating.

Way Cleared For Vote On the Measure

3. It has rejected two presidential proposals for increasing revenue: (a) almost $200,000,000 taxes on oil and gas producers, and (b) $400,000,000 more from levies on inheritances and big gifts. This leaves a corporate tax boost as the only major area to get the $500,000,000 more needed to offset the excise cut. (Nobody is considering any increase in personal income taxes.)

Mr. Truman has suggested that the corporate tax rate be jumped from the present 38 per cent to 42 per cent, with an extra provision that would let the boost apply only to the 10 per cent of corporations with annual net earnings over $120,000. Some smaller corporations actually would get tax reductions under his proposal.

ing to throw the UE out of power in various electrical appliance plant—across the country.

In another development over the weekend, Winchard Dec, a field organizer for the United Electrical Workers in Warren for the past year and a half was summoned to appear before the House Un-American Activities Committee in Washington on July 10.

The federal summons was served Dec in a Warren restaurant by James Balaiger, chief of police at Emporium. Two other UE officials, Ben Riskin of New York, working as international representatives of UE in Emporium, and Henry Fiering, district organizer, also were served similar subpoenas.

Dec and Riskin wired Congressman John S. Wood, chairman of the Un-American Activities Committee, declaring the summonses were "a strange coincidence" in coming just six days before the NLRB election at Sylvania.

Dec, in his wire, called the committee "anti-labor" and said "We will be prepared to lay before you in full detail the un-American conspiracy in this community against the Sylvania workers—involving representatives of Sylvania, certain business men, political employees and their associates."

Youngsville Legion Tops Sylvania, 26-6

Youngsville American Legion racked up a 26-6 score to trim the Sylvania nine in a Hot Stove Junior League baseball game at the Youngsville field Friday night. The game was the payoff of a tilt which was rained out on Tuesday, June 13.

Batteries were R. Haight, Jim Connor in the 4th and B. Mays and White for Youngsville; and Culbertson, Gheres and Laufenberger for Sylvania.

Jack White, lead man for Youngsville, got four hits, including two doubles, in six trips to the plate. The Pollard brothers also starred for the winners with their long hitting, while Gnage turned in a good performance in the field for Sylvania.

The Legionnaire hurlers had 11 strikeouts while the Sylvania hurlers had three.

In another Junior game played Thursday night, Fadales topped Sylvania, 7-2, at King field.

For Fadales, it was 7 runs on 7 hits and no errors, while Sylvania showed 2 runs on 5 hits and 5 errors. Batteries were Hartnett and Irvin for Fadales and Gnage and Laufenberger for Sylvania.

Youngsville Legion also was credited with a 5-1 triumph over Glade A. C. in a Junior League scrap Thursday night.

League games Tuesday night: Sylvania vs Keystone Garage, State Hospital field.

Glade A. C. vs Clarendon, Clarendon field.

Starbrick vs Fadales, King field.

Annex Garage vs Youngsville Legion, Youngsville field.

Most Managers Are Agreed That Baseballs Are Too Lively

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK.—(NEA)—The Boston Massacre was the clincher. Major league managers generally agree with Connie Mack. Something should be done about the lively ball.

The exception is Joe McCarthy. The boss of the Red Sox likes it this way.

Mack isn't complaining about the jack rabbit in the sphere because the highly promising Athletics' pitching staff collapsed. The box scores tell the story. Look at the big innings.

Managers used to play for them. Now they just come naturally. As Mr. Mack points out, pitchers act as though they were taking their lives in their hands.

"Take the net in front of batting practice pitchers," stresses Red Rolfe of the Tigers. "This is indicative of the trend. It came in only in more recent years."

"Now it's absolutely necessary, for it would be dangerous for batting practice pitchers without one."

Tris Speaker used to argue that any ball hit in the air inside of a ball park should be caught.

"Well," says Rolfe, "there are two or three outfielders playing now who run just as fast as did Speaker, and they don't catch balls hit inside the parks."

"OUTFIELDERS have to practically play out of sight these days, because a club has to protect itself against the long ball. This permits many more bloopers to drop in between outfielders and infielders."

"A great deal of the beautiful infield play of years ago has been thoroughly dissipated. The ball is hit through the infield like a bullet. You can't tell me, or anybody who has been exposed to it that the ball isn't more resilient than it was as recently as a year ago. I've never known it to bounce back so quickly, or for such magnificent distances," points out Manager Rolfe.

"I've seen double plays completed this season almost before the man hitting the ball has left the plate. A line drive to an infielder, and no base-runner has a Chinaman's chance."

"There are not many players around now fitted by nature and build to hit home runs under normal circumstances," adds Mr. Mack.

"Yet everybody is doing it—little fellows under 150 pounds, pitchers who ordinarily would be lucky to get a single—everybody."

"With everybody swinging for the fences and stands, it is my belief that some pitchers are afraid to put the ball over the plate."

SMOKY JOE

By W. F. BRAGG

Chapter 30

It was long past midnight, but lights in Rawhide Gap still glared and the streets were crowded with a restless chattering mob of boomers. A canvas-covered four horse outfit ground to a halt in front of the Silver Hill and the lean driver called to one of the men in the doorway, "What's keepin' you folks up so late?"

"You wouldn't sleep if you'd just gone busted," snarled the man. "Those blasted Munros. They've put the hammer on the ditch company and taken all the hair off Rawhide Gap. We're callin' an indignation meetin' in here. Judge Boots has been retained as our attorney!"

"So the Munros busted your boom?" asked the driver. "How come?"

"They found a flaw in the water rights. So everybody who just paid part of the land price down and the rest on time has been called on to pay up in full by the gent who made the first big loan to old Munro. Pack Rogan!"

The disgusted boomer cursed the Munros anew and pushed on into the Silver Hill. The driver, turned in his seat and murmured, "We're here in time." Then he knotted the reins around the brake staff and climbed awkwardly to the ground. He pushed through the crowd and around into the alley, mounted the iron stairway that led to the second floor.

A small boy slipped into the jail office where Shorty Dike held down a bitter, solitary watch.

"If you want Munro," said the kid, "he just rode up the street."

"Smoky Joe," Shorty growled, and sprang to his feet. He stepped to the doorway and walked straight into the barrels of two six-guns.

"We want your keys," growled one gunhawk.

"And Jane Morgan," said the other.

INSIDE the Silver Hill Theater, settlers and Rawhide Gap citizens formed an angry, buzzing audience for old Judge Boots, who stood on the platform with up-lifted hand, urging men to silence.

"With the ditch company water right in dispute," the judge orated, "it is best for us to take calm counsel. We must arrange a settlement with those who made the loans to the Munros. It is unfortunate—"

"Hang the Munros!" bawled Pudge Groner. "They've busted this town wide open. We ought to hang 'em!"

"Hang 'em!" the crowd roared.

"A slim girl sprang to her feet. With flashing eyes, she faced the crowd.

"Buzards!" she cried. "Your town's been dead so long it smells. You've been fattening on dead meat!"

"Connie," old Hale cried, and tried to pull his daughter back into her chair as the crowd snarled its anger at her hot words.

"It's true, Dad," she cried and, covering her face with her hands, she began to weep.

Hard Hat Bulvane walked out on the stage importantly, wearing his derby and smoking his cigar. He shouted to the crowd, "Order while the judge talks!"

Clicking a stack of chips in the poker room, Rogan smiled as he heard the angry roaring die down on the other side of the partition.

"The judge," he said to young Rance Hale, who sat across from him behind a very small stack of chips, "is feedin' 'em the right sort of meat." He pushed out a couple of red chips and said lazily to Rance, "I'm callin'. Full house, kings on top!"

Rance groaned and muttered, "All yours."

A smiling man bent over Rogan as he reached for the pile of chips in the center of the table. He grasped Rogan's wrists and turned his hands upward.

"All bets are off," said Smoky Joe. "Rogan wears a ring with a little microscope mounted inside it. Generally he wears it on his right hand. But when he plays cards, he puts it on his left so's he can read the cards as he deals 'em. He forgot that little glasses like that sometimes reflect light. I noticed it just now as I was goun' up the outside stairway."

The poker room had turned cold and silent as a tomb. Then young Rance whipped up, jerking a gun. Rogan's florid face had turned the greenish hue of a rattlesnake's belly. He sat like a man of stone, his hands held upward by Smoky Joe so that the mirror in the ring was fully exposed.

"Don't shoot," Joe said gently to Rance. "We don't want to go to miss the town indignation meetin'!" He called over his shoulder, "Watch 'em, Whisperin'!"

Whisperin' stepped in, wearing a flour sack bandage around his head. He tilted a gun. A couple of long-geared McDevitts flanked him with carbines.

"He made a fool out of me!" young Rance pleaded. "Why, he won half that lease money from me! I had to tell Dad somethin'."

Joe studied the boy curiously and shook his head. "Put away your gun, little boy," he said finally, "and tell your dad and Connie the truth for once. Where are they?"

"In the theater. At the meetin'."

It trouble comes we'll likely lose our lease!"

Joe headed Rogan out the rear doorway that led to the back of the theater stage. He called to Whisperin' and the two McDevitts, "Let young Hale and the others join the festivities! The show's on!"

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

First Trick is Trickery in College Tourney

By OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service

One of the most unusual bridge events of the year is the annual Intercollegiate Tournament. This year 151 colleges in 42 states competed in the early rounds of this tournament. Students from 16 colleges won their way to the Chicago finals, held in April.

More than 1200 college students had a chance in the early rounds to show their skill with this hand. A very large number bid and played it correctly.

At most tables, the opening lead was the queen of diamonds. If South took his first trick he received a nice round zero.

The correct play is to allow West to hold the first trick with the queen of diamonds. South wins ending in dummy. He then leads the jack of hearts and lets it ride for a finesse.

West can win with the queen of hearts but is then helpless. If he returns a heart, dummy will win a trick with the ten. If West returns his only remaining suit (diamonds), dummy can ruff while South discards his remaining low heart.

The reason South gets a zero for winning the first trick is that this allows the opponents to upset the appecart. For example suppose South wins the ace of diamonds at the first trick and goes to dummy with a club to take the trump finesse. West wins with the king of spades and puts his partner in with a diamond. East is then able to lead a heart. This cooks declarer's goose.

If South takes his ace of hearts, he must eventually give up two tricks in that suit. If he plays low, West wins with the queen of hearts and returns a spade or a club. Thereafter West waits patiently to take the setting trick with his king of hearts.

Wouldn't you feel much better about your investments if you knew that every security had been selected after careful comparison with other similar issues and after careful analysis by professional investment research men? After all to sift the more than 3,000 listed issues... not to mention the nearly 20,000 unlisted issues... is more than any one person can do.

Mutual Investment Funds employ many research men to study, analyze and investigate the different issues as well as the different industries so that the funds may own those, which in their opinion, are the safest and most promising.

An investment in a group of 100 different companies should be much safer and, in the long run, more profitable than in only one or two companies.

SELLING A HOUSE?

There have been many sold by the individual owner, but facts and figures show that the best deal for buyer and seller is always made through the real estate broker. It is a service that makes the details much easier. By experience, the buyer and seller are better satisfied, and both are well protected. Real Estate selling is a specialized field in which this office is thoroughly familiar. If you plan on selling, call on us and we will show you how our service pays. Quick sales are our specialty.

Sheffield Firemen Extinguish Blaze In Chicken Coop

Sheffield, June 19 — Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reichard, Tiona, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Patricia, to Earl English, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar English, 208 Hall St. No date has been set for the wedding.

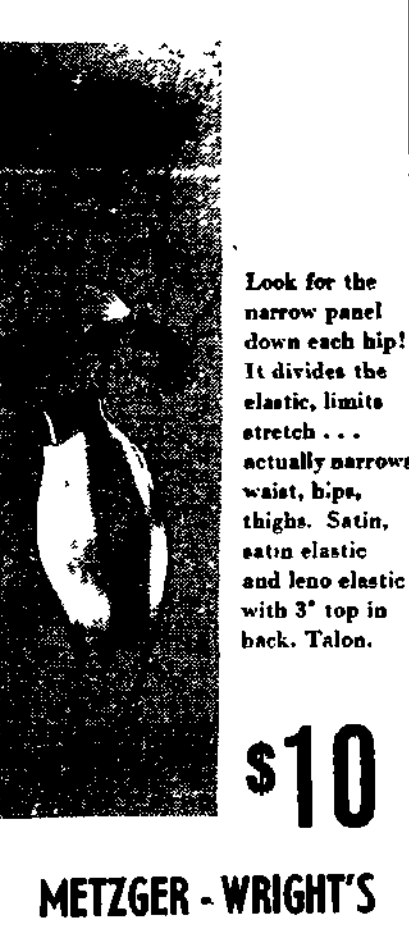

Miss Reichard, who attended Sheffield schools, was graduated with the class of 1950 from Warren high and now is employed by the Metzger-Wright company, Warren.

Sheffield's volunteer fire department was called out at 2:35 p. m. Friday to extinguish a fire in an old chicken coop behind the Sherman Kahle residence. Willow St., which was being used by the children as a playhouse. Straw inside the building became ignited and caught the building afire which was a complete loss to the amount of $200. The firemen were out until 3:30 p. m. Friday.

Announcement was made Friday afternoon that the Forest Furniture company in Sheffield will be renamed the Penn-Forest Furniture company. Albert and Emil Ristau are starting the company in the former Central Pennsylvania Lumber company property in Milltown with production expected to be started by the end of August or early in September.

ERIE TRAGEDY

A young mother who frantically searched through a fire-filled house for her son who had already escaped, died of burns at Erie Saturday. A passerby tossed stones at a window to awaken Mrs. Lucille Whitten and 11-year-old Lewis Whitten, when he saw flames pouring from the house Friday. Lewis jumped from a second story window into the arms of a rescuer. His mother did not know he was safe. She searched the house until she was seared from head to foot.

PATIENTS DISCHARGED

Glenn Ingerson and Richard Knott, both of Jamestown, N. Y., were discharged from Warren General Hospital over the weekend. They were injured in company with two other men, discharged earlier, in a one car accident near Onondaga last weekend. Lloyd Thomas, State Hospital, injured early last week in an accident near the State Hospital entrance, was discharged Friday. Two other victims of this accident were discharged earlier in the week. Wesley Demming, driver of the car involved and the most seriously injured, is now out of danger, and has been transferred to Aspinwall Veterans' Hospital near Pittsburgh.

SMOKY JOE
By W. F. BRAGG

(From Page Nine)

Chapter 31

I ONG JOHN standing at the meeting, heard Connie gasp and whirled around. He saw Smoky Joe walking out from the wings with an unsmiling Pack Rogan ahead of him and under Joe's gun. He saw Hard Hat Bulvane spin around and reach for his gun. And he heard a hoarse shout from the rear of the hall.

"Hold it, Bulvane!"

That was the harsh voice of Pap McDevitt. Hard Hat held it. Joe stepped away from Rogan and said to the crowd:

"The boom's over! The McDevitts control the water rights! Monty McDevitt owns a first right on Lost Creek! The Munros are in the same boat with you. That was what started all the shooting! Those Lost Creek water rights. And some on another creek owned by Jane Morgan's father. I'm glad," Joe went on, "that the boom is busted. Once the Munros had a few friends in this town. But cold cash does strange things to friendship. When we were up against it, the bitterest enemies of the Munros gave us help because they were men and not yellow coyotes! One of these days my dad'll come back and tell you so."

Judge Boots licked his lips. "You means," he faltered, "that your father is alive?"

Joe dug a paper from his pocket. "I reckon you know his handwriting," he said. "He signed this a few hours ago. I got plenty of witnesses. It's a transfer of that power of attorney over to me." Joe waited while the judge examined the document. "Any legal questions, Judge?" he asked brightly.

"I'm astounded," the judge whispered. "I believed my old friend was dead. I'm overcome." And the judge reeled back against the table on which he had piled his legal tomes. He reached for his pocket as though to draw out a handkerchief. Beads of sweat stood out on his fine white brow.

"Hold it, Judge!" said the nasal voice of Pap McDevitt.

The judge held it.

"Bring in the body of the evidence, boys," Joe called.

Four McDevitts tramped solemnly down the center aisle bearing something wrapped in a wagon tarp. They hoisted it up on the stage. Joe bent and whipped away the sheet. Exposed was the face of the dead Pecos Shay.

THE crowd had become silent. It seemed that men had stopped breathing. Eyes centered on the tall form of Smoky Joe as he bent over the still form of the dead gunman.

"He lived by the gun," said Joe. "He wasn't much good, but he wouldn't talk. He knew at the end that they had made a fool of him. Then it was too late."

Joe turned and faced the judge. "He couldn't talk. But he did his best to tell me. When he smiled, it finally sank into my thick head what he meant. He didn't want his boots shucked off. He wanted to tell me who had shot him down with a shotgun. He wanted to tell me the name of the man in black. The sneak who betrayed his old friends, hired gun dummies and tinhorns for his fronts. The diseased product of a greedy boom town. The man who even tried to set the blame for knifin' on a woman."

Hard Hat Bulvane growled viciously. "Munro, you're under arrest for murder. Don't try to talk yourself out of it."

"No," Judge Boots said sternly, although his voice was shaking. "Abide by the law, Joe. And suddenly Boots produced a little pistol from the sleeve of his black coat.

Letter From Newtatah

(Contributed)

Thursday at Newtatah was a beautiful day with a little fog in the morning which faded by nine o'clock. It was so nice that by 11:30 there was a general swim. Classes including beginners, intermediate and advanced swimming were continued in the afternoon. After a cook-out in the evening, the more ambitious ones went on a five-mile hike. The others stayed behind and participated in games, dancing and softball.
